GOP Support for Dewey Gathering In Spite of Silence

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—The difficult road that lies ahead for any darkhorse hopefuls was impressed on Republicans today as a result of Wendell L. Willkie's retirement from the race for the party's presidential nomination.

With Willkie out of the running, a swing appeared underway for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Definite indications developed that Dewey would collect a major share of the support which Willkie renounced after his defeat in Tuesday's Wisconsin primary.

There were some Republicans who had envisioned the possibility that Dewey and Willkie would present almost equal strength on the first ballot. Any such result, they said, might lead to one of those convention deadlocks from which darkhorses spring galloping.

Expressed Hope

This was the frankly expressed hope of Senator Vandenberg, R., Mich., who has been saying that the Republicans ought to nominate Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

But the quick surge to Dewey appeared likely to scuttle any such movement, despite the three votes MacArthur picked up in Wisconsin. There was some doubt in various states where the Willkie delegates would go, but the professional Republican minority in the south seemed primed to board the New York governor's bandwagon.

Cheerful but non-committal on his political future, Willkie returned to New York today.

He declined to add anything to the statement he made in Omaha in which he said he was withdrawing his candidacy because "it is obvious I cannot be nominated."

Evades Questions

To all questions asked by newsmen as to whether he would support the candidate of the Republican national convention and, specifically, whether he would support Dewey should he be the nominee, Willkie merely smiled.

"I made my statement in Omaha," he said. "It was completely comprehensive and I don't want to add to it."

Dewey meanwhile, stuck diligently to his state duties after indicating strongly that he will not be stampeded into a declaration that he wants or will accept the Republican nomination for president.

In his first press conference since Willkie's withdrawal, Dewey stood adamantly last night upon his previous statements that he is "not a candidate" for the nomination. He has remained silent on whether he would accept a draft-nomination.

NO COMMENT

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UP)—President Roosevelt had no comment at his news conference today on the withdrawal of Wendell L. Willkie from the Republican presidential campaign.

BRICKER TO PUSH CAMPAIGN EFFORT

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UP)—The scramble for the Republican presidential support cast loose by Wendell L. Willkie was underway today with Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio the first in the field.

Bricker, the only remaining announced candidate among the top contenders, told the Indianapolis Press club last night that Willkie's withdrawal would intensify his own campaign for delegates to the GOP national convention at Chicago late in June.

Strength a Question

Whether Bricker can assemble enough strength before the convention to outstrip Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, generally accepted as front runner at the moment, remained problematical.

Meanwhile, the name of Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was projected into the picture as a possible dark horse contender.

Johnston's name was suggested by a New England senator, a supporter of Willkie's policies on international affairs. He told the United Press he had been sounded out recently by influential persons on his attitude toward the Chamber of Commerce president, but said he had not made up his mind.

Republicans Divided

Leading Republicans were cautious and divided in their appraisals of what effect Willkie's withdrawal will have on the GOP nomination. There was a strong feeling that he still may exert considerable influence in selection of the candidate and drafting of the party platform.

Some believed that Willkie, instead of accepting Dewey, might get behind the candidacy of someone with a foreign policy more nearly like his own, such as Lieut. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, who was his 1940 convention floor manager, or a dark horse such as Johnston.

STRIKE CLOSES PLANT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 7 (UP)—The Sheffield Steel corporation scrap refining plant was closed today by a strike of 3,000 employes, members of the CIO United Steel Workers union, in protest over the replacement of a veteran employe with a three-year man.

FDR CITES DROP IN LIVING COSTS

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt released a report today on the stabilization program, which maintained that living costs had been held substantially unchanged for a year and that "wages have been stabilized."

The report, taking note of the fact that tomorrow marks the first anniversary of his "hold-the-line" order on the cost of living, was submitted by Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization director; Chester Bowles, price administrator; Marvin Jones, war food administrator, and William H. Davis, national war labor board chairman.

Called Important

Mr. Roosevelt described it as important because it showed how the government was trying to keep prices from going up through the roof and ultimately bankrupting everybody in the country.

"On this first anniversary of the issuance of the 'hold-the-line' order," the document said, "we can report that the task of stopping the rise in prices has thus far been carried out. . . As a result the cost of living, which before the 'hold-the-line' order was rising three-quarters per cent a month, has for a solid year been held without change of any consequence."

As a matter of fact, the report said, the cost of living as a whole is slightly below the levels of a year ago.

Benefits Cited

The quartet of government officials declared that "stabilization has brought tangible—indeed bankable—benefits to all groups." They declared stabilization had paid off on every hand in lasting rather than illusory benefits, and had been of benefit particularly to some 20,000,000 persons whose incomes cannot be boosted to keep pace with rising prices.

"The need for continued restraint and continued cooperation with every phase of the stabilization program is evident," the report concluded.

"Obviously, too, we should cling to the policies and machinery which have served us so effectively so far."

RAF Raiders Hit Targets in Ruhr

LONDON, April 7 (UP)—Swarms of RAF Mosquito bombers attacked Hamburg and targets in the industrial Ruhr and Rhineland last night and, axis reports said, scattered allied "nuisance raiders" struck at Germany by daylight today.

The enemy broadcasts indicated that Anglo-American reconnaissance planes might be, ranging over the reich to photograph bomb damage or scout out new targets for the big allied bombing fleets.

Reunion

SPOKANE, Wash., April 7 (AP)—Petty Officer Paul O. Filer, a seabee, was passenger on a battleship in the south Pacific when it slowed down to take aboard a visitor from a PT boat, Filer wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Filer, sr., Orogrande, Ida.

Filer saluted briskly when the passenger was introduced. It was his wife, a navy nurse with a lieutenant's rating.

F. F. A. CONDUCTS LEADER COURSES

Responsibilities of presidents and officers of approximately 20 district and local F.F.A. chapters were outlined at a special training meeting conducted at Friday morning's session of the state Future Farmers of America convention, being held in Twin Falls this week. New state officers will not be named until the final session Saturday afternoon, when the nominating committee makes its official report, according to Stanley Richardson, Boise, state supervisor of agricultural education.

A separate training school for presidents, vice-presidents and treasurers of the district and local F.F.A. chapters was conducted by E. D. Belnap, Idaho Falls, assistant supervisor of agricultural education. Parliamentary procedure was reviewed as well as individual responsibilities of the officers in promoting F.F.A. work in their respective chapters.

H. W. Winner, professor of agricultural education at the University of Idaho, conducted a similar training session for F.F.A. secretaries and reporters.

Auditing, foundation awards and constitution committees which were appointed yesterday by State F.F.A. President Von Packard, Meridian, will make reports on their work following this afternoon's committee sessions, Richardson said.

The state public speaking contest, a Thursday highlight, was won by Von Packard, Meridian, in a "photo finish." Placing second was Charles Lehrman, Aberdeen, who was outscored by a fraction of one point. Packard's theme was "From Soil to War," and the subject of Lehrman's talk was "The Necessity of Trained Farmers."

Other Contestants

Other contestants and their subjects were: Eugene Sturgill, Kimberly, "The Farmers' Changing World"; Thomas H. Lewis, Malad, "Youth and Agriculture Marches on," and Dean Call, Rigby, "In Between Post-War Problems."

Packard, who is also state F. F. A. president, asserted the purpose and

Sforza Says Emanuele to Quit Throne

NAPLES, April 7 (UP)—Count Carlo Sforza, one-time Italian foreign minister, said today he believed King Victor Emanuele, in the interests of the Italian people, will retire temporarily even before the fall of Rome and place the royal interests in the hands of Crown Prince Humbert in an effort to settle the political crisis.

Sforza, in an exclusive interview with the United Press, also indicated that the executive committee of the six-party junta will remain firm in refusing to enter the cabinet until the king formally had agreed to retire.

The press office of Premier Pietro Badoglio issued an official denial of a purported statement by Humbert that he offered to take over the king's duties and interests immediately.

Sforza's statement followed a meeting of the executive committee yesterday at which Benedetto Croce, liberal leader, revealed that the king had agreed to retire temporarily after Rome falls and permit a lieutenant-generalcy under Humbert until the Italian people have a chance to vote when Italy is fully liberated.

FOOD NO. 1 WAR JOB, C. OF C. TOLD

Denying comment that Twin Falls is not doing its share in contributing to the war effort, Charles J. Kelly, manager of the Twin Falls Flour Mills and guest speaker at the Friday luncheon of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce in the Rogerson hotel, said:

"In this area we can do best by helping to feed a fighting nation and a hungry world tomorrow.

"In the postwar era we can continue to strive to produce better foods as the logical heritage of this valley, by guarding well the rights of being able to produce better crops with unrestricted research."

In referring to the milling industry, he pointed out that the Twin Falls mill produces 11 per cent of the state's total flour production of 56,000 barrels, yet retains only one-eighth of it for consumption within the state. Over half of the mill's product is sent to the east coast and the deep south, he said.

"No other section of the U. S. produces the quality of wheat grown in this valley. That is why we can compete with larger production areas."

Mr. Kelly's speech was the concluding feature of the monthly luncheon. Other guests included Otto Illif and A. J. Meeks, both of Twin Falls, and Grant Wilson, Colorado. Pres. Claude H. Detweiler presented the guests and announced that next month's speaker will be Martin Milcovich, manager of the Mayfair Farms.

OPA Urges Care Of Ration Books

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—The office of price administration today urged housewives to take good care of their ration books because the replacement supply is limited.

Book four, the agency reminded, will be in use about three times as long as earlier food books. Only airplane stamp 1 for shoes is currently good in book three, but other stamps in the book may be designated for use later, OPA said.

Book one will be withdrawn from use with the expiration of shoe stamp 18, good through April 30.

BURLEY TIES FOR DEBATING HONORS

ALBION, April 7—Contests in dramatic readings, poetry, humorous selections, essays, extemporaneous and original essays got underway at 8 a. m. at Albion Normal school today as second-day sessions of the annual Southeastern Idaho Debate and Declamation league contests for high school students continued.

Tonight, one-act play competition will begin at 8 o'clock in Bocock auditorium, and Saturday morning oratorical contests are slated, to be followed by annual meeting of officials of the league.

Burley high school tied yesterday with Blackfoot and Sugar City in the debate tournament, and all three schools began a run-off at 1:15 p. m. today to decide first, second and third places.

The six teams taking part in the tourney were from Rupert, Burley, Rexburg, Blackfoot, Malad and Sugar City. Question for the debate was: "Resolved, That the United States Should Join in Reconstituting the League of Nations."

Faculty members served as judges.

After yesterday afternoon's debate tourney an Easter cantata was presented by the music department under the direction of Maye Anita Johnson. A mixer, planned by the Associated Women Students, was held in Comish recreation hall.

FLASHES of LIFE

By Associated Press

CELEBRATION

NEW YORK, April 7—A depositor found $500 on the floor of a bank, returned it to the owner and received a $50 reward.

He figured a celebration was in order.

The festivities were barely over when he found himself in jail—charged with assault, dangerous driving, driving while intoxicated and passing a red light.

And there was nothing left of the $50.

FIRE

PHILADELPHIA, April 7—Eight prospective brides had a fast fitting at a dress shop yesterday.

The girls were trying on their bridal gowns when smoke began pouring into the shop from a fire in the basement.

By the time firemen arrived the young women had changed into street clothes and fled to safety.

RESCUE

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., April 7—Jamestown firemen have made a new kind of cat rescue. Instead of the usual ladders against a tree, they sent a booster line down a storm sewer.

The cat, which had fallen in one manhole, was snatched out by a fireman as the water from the hose swept it down to the next one.

NEW GAS CUT SEEN

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 7 (AP)—Further cuts in gasoline rations are faced by Pacific coast motorists unless a share-the-ride program to be introduced this month results in extensive savings of fuel, Gelston C. Judah, San Francisco, regional officer of the office of defense transportation, has disclosed.

Politicians, Church Bigotry Termed Crucifying Jesus Anew

A present-day parallel to the crucifixion of Jesus was drawn by the Rev. George G. Roseberry, D. D., in the sermon delivered in union Good Friday services held at the Twin Falls Methodist church this afternoon.

"The corruption between politics and the church is still very great," declared the speaker, who is eastern district superintendent for the Methodist church. "The churchmen and the politicians of today frame up on Jesus today, as of the days of Pilate and the officers of the established church. All of society crucified Jesus in Jerusalem, and all of society crucifies Jesus today."

Rev. Mr. Roseberry rapped both politicians, and those persons who ridicule or criticize any religious denomination, to climax a program that began with an organ prelude by Miss Josephine Throckmorton at 12:45 p. m.

Crucifixion Parallel

The speaker used the same terms that are employed by political critics of today in drawing his parallel of the crucifixion of Christ.

"The Pilates of today crucify Jesus when they are politically expedient," asserted the district superintendent. "There are those who think more of political cunning than they do of Christian conduct. They will pay 30 pieces of silver to crucify any follower of Christ who would question their methods.

"There are those who still make money off of the blood of others. The Federal Council of Churches states that the per capita consumption of alcoholic drinks was higher in 1943 than any year of history. Perhaps that is the main reason why there were more divorces last year in the United States than there were marriages. There are politicians who will release Jesus to the rabble rousers that they may hold their political power."

Wants Harmony

A plea for one church, instead of warring denominations, was voiced by Rev. Mr. Roseberry in his castigation of bigotry.

"When one denomination ridicules, harangues and criticizes other denominations," he warned, "then that denomination crucifies Jesus in the cruelty of religious bigotry. The coming of the kingdom of God is held back by such belittling practices. I pray for the day when there will be one Federated Church of Christ in America that will reach the unchurched, that will raise the standard of living, that will cause wars to be no more, that will bring the spirit of Christ into the lives of

By HARRISON SALISBURY

MOSCOW, April 7 (UP)—The red army began the battle for Odessa today, driving through the last German defenses at a pace that promised early liberation of the big Black sea port and destruction of its nazi garrison.

Soviet tank and infantry columns neared the outskirts of Odessa along three main highways east, northeast and northwest of the city while Soviet planes ranged over the sea approaches to prevent any Dunkirk evacuation attempt.

The speed of the Russian advance was believed to have smashed any German hopes of extricating more than a portion of the nearly-trapped garrison—estimated a month ago at more than 100,000 men—or of making a protracted stand in the city.

Germans Trapped

The defenders literally were jammed against the Black sea and were being squeezed even tighter by by Russian forces relentlessly bearing down on them from a solid belt of bases less than 13 miles from the center of Odessa.

German air and naval forces could offer little help to the beleaguered garrison because they have no major support bases closer than Constanta, Rumania, nearly 200 miles to the south.

Heavy rains turned the terrain to mud, but it appeared to be hampering the German retreat more than the Soviet advance. Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's third Ukrainian army swept up more than 10 towns and villages on the near approaches to Odessa yesterday, severing the last vestiges of the enemy's escape routes except for a single inadequate coastal railway that depends on a ferry line to ford the five-mile-wide Dniester lagoon.

Skala Battle Rages

Some 250 miles to the northwest, the battle of annihilation against the 400-square-mile German Skala pocket appeared to be entering the final phase with the enemy attempting to evacuate high-ranking officers from the encircled area by transport planes.

Red air force fighters blockading the shrinking pocket shot down 19 German planes in dogfights yesterday while ground forces captured 29 big transport planes on airfields overrun in their advance.

Nearly 4,000 more Germans were killed inside the pocket yesterday, boosting the toll since the encirclement was completed to 12,200. Four towns were seized, including the main center of resistance, Skala, 38 miles northeast of Cernauti.

Second U.S. Air Blow Rips Hollandia Base

By WILLIAM B. DICKINSON

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, April 7 (UP)—Allied bombers, sweeping over debris-cluttered airfields at Hollandia, blasted the Japanese northern New Guinea supply base again Wednesday in the wake of new double-pronged attacks on Truk, big enemy bastion 1,000 miles to the northeast in the Carolines, it was disclosed today.

A fleet of more than 250 Liberators, Mitchell mediums, and Boston bombers from Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney's fifth air force assaulted Hollandia with 320 tons of explosives and over a quarter million rounds of ammunition, leaving fires that still burned the next day.

Buildings Destroyed

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said many buildings and gun positions were destroyed, and smoke from flaming fuel dumps rose 15,000 feet into the air. The raid, coming three days after Sunday's big attack which temporarily wiped out the enemy's air power there, was carried out without interception, and all the planes returned safely.

Australian ground forces continued to press the Japanese back through the Mintjim valley and pushed the allied advanced line to within three miles of Baudashak, six miles below the enemy seaport of Bogadjim and about 400 miles south of Hollandia.

The New Guinea operations came as American planes from the fifth, seventh and 13th airforces carried the aerial offensive on Truk into the seventh day, hammering Moen and Dublon islands in the principal Carolines atoll both Monday and Tuesday.

Liberators Attack

Big Liberators from the central Pacific's seventh airforce raided the two islands Monday and early Tuesday, while other Liberators from Solomons bases returned at dawn Tuesday to add to the destruction at Dublon.

JAPS NEAR VITAL INDIA RAIL LINE

By The Associated Press

Japanese troops have driven deep into allied defenses guarding the vital Bengal-Assam railway in northeastern India, it was disclosed today, posing an increasingly menacing threat to the lifeline supporting Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's north Burma offensive.

At the same time Japan predicted that the allied "general offensive still will take place during the first half of this year."

Allied headquarters in New Delhi announced officially that Japanese road block groups which had cut the communications to the supply center of Imphal by establishing strongpoints along 15 miles of the road north to Kohima, had infiltrated into the area west of the highway.

They have reached positions only 40 miles from the Bengal-Assam railway which feeds supplies to Stilwell's forces and also connects with the air-bore supply route to China. British troops were reported engaging the enemy.

Gurkhas of the 17th Indian division which killed or wounded 1,800 Japanese in their drive into Imphal defeated an enemy tank force some 22 miles from Tiddim with such effect that the Japanese took to mass hara kiri.

Despite continued pressure, the allied supply lines still were operative.

The Berlin radio broadcast a Tokyo dispatch asserting that the allies were attempting to bolster their forces to meet the "surging advance" by rushing in reinforcements from the Hukawng valley in northern Burma and from other areas.

Woman Ordered to Face Fraud Trial

TULSA, Okla., April 7 (AP)—Mrs. Fay Smith was ordered held for trial Wednesday on charges of fraud and obtaining money under false pretenses from two young women who testified the religious practitioner had taken thousands of dollars from them during years under her influence.

The women, Virginia Evans, 30, and Willetta Horner, 31—testified they were Mrs. Smith's virtual slaves, that they gave her their entire earnings and submitted to cruel treatment in the belief she was a God-like person who could do no wrong.

BEER REVENUE UP

BOISE, April 7 (UP)—The Idaho beer revenue office collected $8,000 more in the first quarter of 1944 than the same period a year ago despite a decrease in the number of retailers and wholesalers, Director William Trowbridge reported today.

Enemy Destroyer Sunk at Rabaul

A SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, April 7 (AP)—Navy Pilot Lieut. (j.g.) Orrin G. Ford spotted a well camouflaged Japanese destroyer as he took his bomber in for an attack on transports and barges at Keravia bay, just south of Rabaul, New Britain.

Quickly correcting his aim, he went in to attack the larger game. The bomb struck the destroyer in the stern and observers reported that additional hits by other American fliers succeeded in sinking the warship.

World's Jewry to Observe Passover

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—Celebration of Passover, the 3,000-year-old festival commemorating the Israelites' escape from Egyptian bondage, will begin at sundown Friday with American soldiers in remote outposts all over the world joining in the symbolical "seder" service.

In messages marking the Passover, Hebrew leaders said the world looks to "the Lord of Liberty" to provide a speedy victory for the United Nations.

CIO CLEARED OF ELECTION CHARGE

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—Attorney General Biddle said today an investigation of activities of the CIO's political action committee disclosed no violation of criminal provisions of the federal corrupt practices act or of laws limiting the amount of election campaign contributions.

Biddle's statement was made in a letter to Representative Smith, D., Va., chairman of a house committee to investigate executive agencies.

The Virginian had charged in a letter to the justice department that a "flagrant violation" of the corrupt practices act was disclosed by an article by CIO President Philip Murray in the February issue of the American magazine.

The article, Smith contended, described the political action committee and stated that various CIO unions had made an initial contribution of $700,000 to the work of the committee.

Biddle said he had directed the FBI to investigate not only possible violations of the corrupt practices act but to look also for any violation of the Hatch act limiting contributions in connection with elections for federal office.

The FBI inquiry showed the committee had received $569,608, of which $400,000 was in lump sums of $100,000 each appropriated by three of the international unions and the CIO. The balance came principally from other national unions.

Biddle said the only contribution discovered was $15,000 spent in the campaign for a candidate for governor in New Jersey. This, he said, was not prohibited by federal law.

Induction Quotas to Continue Despite Army's Peak Strength

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UP)—The army was revealed today to have reached its peak strength of 7,700,000—sending the combined size of the armed forces to about 11,000,000—but officials warned that induction rates cannot be reduced materially before July.

The office of war information, in a report based on information from the war and navy departments, gave this picture of the armed services and their future needs in manpower:

Army—Now has reached peak strength of 7,700,000 officers and enlisted personnel but will require from 75,000 to 100,000 more men a month throughout 1944—or a nine-month total of from 700,000 to 1,000,000—for replacements to maintain that strength. The emphasis in replacements must be on men who are "young and physically qualified for the rigors of combat duty."

Navy—Now totals over 3,200,000, including marine and coast guard; will need 300,000 in new personnel and replacements to reach 3,500,000 by July 1; and will reach its peak strength of 3,600,000 by Sept. 1.

The war department said that the army would actually surpass its planned strength this month but emphasized that this was necessary "to start training of men who will be required to meet anticipated losses"—a reminder that gigantic new operations, involving unprecedented casualties, are impending in Europe.

The army made it clear that it needs, and expects to get, hundreds of thousands of new men under the age of 26, despite any hardships it may work on industry.

The army's manpower calls are expected to drop off in May, but no material reduction in draft quotas is likely before July because of the navy's primary needs and the replacement requirements of both branches of the service.

FDR Sees Nazis In Soviet Stand

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UP)—President Roosevelt said today that the Russian drive across the Ukraine has jeopardized vast new areas of German-held territory and forced on the nazis the necessity of deciding where they are going to try to make a definite stand against the red army.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked during his news conference to comment on recent Russian military operations.

He replied that actually he knew nothing more than was appearing daily in the newspapers. But obviously, he added, the Russian campaign is going extremely well and by moving down toward the western end of the Black sea the Russians had jeopardized a vast amount of new territory held by the Germans.

F. F. A. CONDUCTS LEADER COURSES

intention of his speech was to "portray to the best of my ability the thoughts whirling through a farm boy's mind as he is about to go 'from soil to war'."

He attacked the present administration for many forms of regimentation and stumbling blocks, which, he declared, hinder the productive efforts of willing farmers.

"Farmers are not opposed to holding prices firm on a sound basis, providing wages and other costs are held in check. I hope that farmers do not continue to lose confidence in the men who are charged with administering the price control and similar programs.

"Subsidies, in most instances, are not necessary. Rather, they are actually inflationary as they increase the buying power of the man who receive them and do not reduce the purchasing power of the consumer. We have learned from a study of our soil that it is much better to work along with nature than try to change her a great deal."

Emphasizing the need for trained farmers, Lehrman declared the future of America depends upon the 12 inches of good topsoil which covers it.

"This land of ours, America, has about two and 80 one hundredths acres of farm land for every man, woman and child. Our civilization is founded on about 12 inches of good top soil. Imagine for yourselves what would happen if this top soil were destroyed. Can we as Americans afford to commit this 12-inch foundation to an untrained group of men who call themselves farmers?

Must Reach Adults

"Wouldn't it be a much wiser course to see that real farmers, men trained for the job of farming, are put on the farms of America? This job of manning our farms with trained farmers is not an easy one. Farm boys are being trained in scientific farming in our high schools today, but our problem is reaching the adults on the farms now."

Ronald W. Burrell, state director of the farm security administration; E. P. Rinehart, animal husbandman, university extension division, and Miss Florence Reed, Twin Falls high school public speech director, were judges for the contest. Packard will represent Idaho at the regional public speaking contest at Phoenix, Ariz., April 24-25.

Following the contest, honorary state farmer degrees were awarded to Rinehart, Burrell; E. D. Belnap, Idaho Falls, assistant supervisor of agricultural education; H. A. Winner, professor of agricultural education at the University of Idaho, and to Carlo Hemmings, state assistant supervisor of agricultural education. Degrees were given for outstanding service to F. F. A. in Idaho.

To Investigate Foundation

During the afternoon session Thursday, delegates empowered the executive committee to investigate setting up an Idaho F. F. A. foundation, to be incorporated for the purpose of administering various award funds that have been allotted to F. F. A.

Marvin Jagels, Buhl, past president of the national F. F. A., talked at the general delegate session Thursday. He discussed the importance of agriculture in the war effort, pointing out that every animal lost and every bag of grain meant that much more help to the axis.

Final Speaker

GEORGE J. RONY

Twin Falls Town Hall's final speaker this season, Mr. Rony appears at 8 p. m. Monday at the high school auditorium. Russian born (Leningrad), Rony's knowledge of European countries and their languages has been coupled with adventure since his childhood in Russia. He has been a motion picture director and producer in seven countries.

SERVICE MOTHER PROGRAM READY

Details for the program to be presented in honor of 21 more or more star mothers of Twin Falls county Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the American Legion Memorial hall were announced Friday at noon by Mrs. O. C. McRill, city chairman of the women's war finance committee, who has arranged the program.

The program is planned in honor of these mothers by the county war finance committee, of which R. J. Schwendiman is chairman. He will make the presentation speech during the ceremonies. Mrs. Frankie Alworth, chairman of the women's division who is in general charge of the affair, will call the roll of honor mothers and Mrs. McRill will give them pins signifying the number of sons or daughters in the service.

These pins have been secured by the war finance committee for presentation to the women. The public is invited to attend the program.

Program will open with flag presentation by the American Legion Boy Scout troop No. 68, directed by J. R. Keenan, and the Scouts will lead in the pledge of allegiance. Group singing of the national anthem with them will follow, with Mrs. Kent Tatlock at the piano.

Camp Fire Girls will sing "A Grand Old Flag," and Bill Watts will give his reading, "The American Creed," followed by a solo, "This Is Worth Fighting For," by Mrs. Terry Sullivan.

Following Mr. Schwendiman's talk and fastening of the pins on every mother, Mrs. Trae Miller will sing "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There," and "The Lord's Prayer" will be recited in unison by the audience.

Consumption of Meat in U. S. at 36-Year Record

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP) — Chops, steaks, stews and roasts were served on American dinner tables during the last three months at a higher rate than any year since 1909—and will drop only slightly during April, May and June.

Despite wartime rationing—and complaints of local shortages of certain cuts of meat—the average civilian during the first six months of this year will have kept the butcher going at a busier clip than any year since 1908.

War food administration officials explained today the 3,801,300,000 pounds of meat allocated to civilians for the first quarter represented an annual per capita rate of 138 pounds, the highest since 1908.

The 4,485,200,000 pounds for April, May and June is at an annual rate of 128 pounds per capita. The aggregate rate for the first six months is 1485, last equalled in 1924.

During the last half of the year, however, civilian supplies are expected to be somewhat lower, but the total for the year probably will be about that for 1943.

MORE STRIKES IN BRITAIN LOOMING

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—The whole volcanic labor situation which Britain held in check through the urgency of national need and the machinery of arbitration is erupting in this fifth year of the war with every indication that 1944 will be the worst strike year since the paralyzing 1926 general walkout.

The number of work days lost through strikes has increased sharply and steadily since 1940. Last year's total was second worst year for strike in Britain's history. With more than 1,000,000 work days lost, walkouts during March, 1944, alone rent more production than the whole year of 1941.

The 300 strikes of September, 1943 were high in the record month of the war—involved only 90,000 men. More than that were idle in a single strike this March and in another this month.

The walkouts have had this in common: (1) Most of them have been unauthorized and have in fact been opposed by the union leadership; and (2) the coal fields, chief trouble spot of the past three years, have been the scene of at least half the strikes.

Good Friday had a quieting influence on Britain's harassed coal fields and many strike-bound pits were reopened as most of the country was taking a holiday.

In Yorkshire, hotbed of the latest rash of strikes the principal pits were back in operation in the Wombill area. News from other sections was lacking because of the holidays but there were indications that most pits would be back in operation by Wednesday.

Britain lost just under 1,000,000 working days from strikes in all of 1941, 1,530,000 days in 1942, 1,810,000 days in 1943 and 1,250,000 days already this year.

CHURCHMAN HITS POLITICS, BIGOTRY

The theme of Rev. Mr. Roseberry's sermon, entitled "I Choose the Cross," developed the conception of individuals as "free moral agents."

"We may choose to do anything we please," he said. "Having chosen to do as we please, we then proceed to do as we please, but the end is not yet, for we cannot avoid the consequences of our choices. I have seen many people of whom it was literally true breaking the 10 commandments,' but not so. I have seen many broken lives, and those lives were broken on the 10 commandments. The shores of time are littered with their bodies."

Miss Tincckmeyer's prelude, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord," a spiritual, and "There Is a Green Hill Far Away," were played by the welcome and call to worship by the Rev. H. G. McCallister.

A high school trio sang "Galilee." The trio was composed of Dixie Hinshaw, Betty Ikenberry and Mary Jane Neeby, with Miss Frances Pehrson as accompanist.

Octet Sings

Scripture reading was given by the Rev. Ella Reism, and a high school octet sang "There Is a Green Hill Far Away." Members of the octet were Barbara Burdick, Virgil Beals, Betty Lu Heller, Carmen Vasquez, Gene McMullin, Dick Kevan, John Neeby and Stanley Brown, with Miss Pehrson as accompanist.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. David Johnson, and the combined church choirs sang "God so Loved the World," with Mrs. C. W. Albertson as accompanist.

An offering was taken for China relief, and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. E. R. Radford.

No date has been set for the meeting, she said.

Miss Hepworth arrived in the south central area this week and while in Twin Falls will meet with Mrs. J. M. Turner, newly appointed emergency food preservation specialist, for this county.

"Emphasis in this year's preservation program is to prevent food spoilage," Miss Hepworth said. She pointed out the necessity of testing pressure cookers for accuracy before the canning season begins.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"Praise the Lord We Ain't Agoin' Fishin'"

Willie Wells was always fond of fishing. Now he writes from somewhere overseas:

"There's a song the fellers sing, goes 'Praise the Lord, we ain't agoin' fishin'—and I guess it's so. But you know, dad, sometimes I sure wish I were back fishing for trout in Seward's Creek again."

And I guess that's the way all our soldiers feel. They're fighting a war—and they mean to fight it to a finish—till they can come home to the little pleasures that they've missed so much—the sweet feel of a trout rod . . . a pleasant glass of beer with friends . . . the smell of Mom's fresh baking from the kitchen . . .

From where I sit, we folks at home have an important obligation—to keep intact the little things that they look forward to . . . from the trout rod waiting in the corner to the beer that's cooling in the ice box. Don't you agree?

Radio Orchid to Hollister Couple

Have you ever heard the "Breakfast at Sardi's" program which is broadcast every morning from Hollywood over the blue network?

Neither had Violet Joe and Mrs. Abott, owners and operators of a tourist camp at Hollister. At least, until last night they hadn't.

Then an orchid arrived for them by air express from Cedric's floral shop in Hollywood . . . and with the congratulations of the "Breakfast at Sardi's" show.

On investigation they found that on each morning's program a contest is held for the best letter on good neighborliness. Then the "good neighbor" who is the subject of the letter is sent an orchid.

Now Uncle Joe and Mrs. Abbott are wondering who wrote the letter about them. They're certain that it must have been one of the travelers who spent a day or two at their tourist camp, for everyone else professes ignorance.

PATROLS BATTLE ON ANZIO FRONT

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, April 7 (AP)—Fierce patrol fighting flared along the Anzio front, a communique reported today, while allied field guns and armored tank destroyers joined in the shattering bombardment of German artillery and mortar nests around the beachhead perimeter.

Headquarters spokesmen indicated that the tempo of battle increased on all the major Italian fronts yesterday, with both sides throwing an increasing weight of artillery into the struggle.

Violent Skirmishes

Particularly violent skirmishing and shelling again were reported in progress on the Anzio beachhead, where both the allied and German armies appeared to be bracing for another major test of strength.

Strong German combat patrols struck out against the allied line one and one-half miles south of Aprilia Thursday evening, but were driven off with heavy casualties under grenades and rifle fire.

Nazi mortars, firing from hidden positions in the dry watercourses honeycombing that sector, attempted to lay down supporting fire on the allied defenses, but were silenced quickly by heavy shellfire.

Nazi Guns Silenced

Enemy mortar and machine gun nests near the center of the beachhead two miles northwest of Carano also were put out of action by allied artillery destroyers that moved into close range to blast the German gunners.

German long-range cannon countered the allied shelling with a heavy bombardment of fifth army positions near the Anzio-Aprilia highway, but drew little response from allied guns. About 130 rounds of enemy fire raked the area, but there was no official report on the damage or casualties.

Flying Engineer

ENSIGN CLINTON L. SEPT . . . who conducted his researches on flights from Seattle to the Aleutians, is home in Twin Falls on a short leave. (Staff Photo-Engraving)

Navy Flier Does Heater Research

Flying with U. S. naval air transport crews to remote outposts in the Aleutians and northern Alaska, Ensign Clinton L. Sept, currently on leave in Twin Falls, conducted research on a new type hot air heater which he was instrumental in designing.

"The old steam type heater couldn't stand up in the extreme cold up there," said the 23-year-old graduate of the University of Idaho college of engineering, telling of temperatures as low as 60 degrees below zero.

Sometimes he went along as flight engineer to Dutch Harbor or Kodiak on the navy transport ships which are the lifelines of the outer bases.

While working for Pan-American airways in Seattle shortly after taking his degree last June, Ensign Sept answered a request for volunteers to serve as ensigns in the U. S. navy.

He flew the north runs out of Sand Point and Boeing fields, Seattle, and was transferred to Bremerton, Wash., immediately prior to his present leave. From here he will report to Corpus Christi, Tex.

Ensign Sept was graduated from Twin Falls high school in 1939 and was in the upper 10 per cent of his class at the university. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Sept, 446 Ash street.

U. S. FLIES HURT BRIDE BACK HOME

PITTSBURGH, April 7 (AP)—Pale and admittedly "a little tired," Mrs. Patricia Behr, 25-year-old Valentine's day bride whose back was broken in an automobile accident in Iowa less than a month after her marriage to Flight Officer Andrew J. Behr, came home today in an army ambulance plane.

At the time of the accident Behr obtained an emergency leave from his Utah base to be with his wife, but with his leave about to end, he met with repeated failure in attempts to have her removed from Des Moines to McKeesport, Penn., a Pittsburgh suburb.

Smiling happily as she was carried on a stretcher from the big transport plane to a waiting ambulance, the attractive Mrs. Behr insisted:

"Now that I'm home, nothing bothers me."

Effects of the nerve-wracking trip in which even the slightest jar might have proved fatal told for more on Andrew Behr than on his wife.

"Why are you shivering?" she asked him as they carried her to the ambulance.

"I'm cold," was his reply, although it was one of the warmest days at the airport this season.

Upon her arrival at McKeesport hospital, Dr. G. W. Hock termed her condition "good."

Behr's efforts to bring his wife home were climaxed by a letter written to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. However, both Behr and his wife declined to discuss whether the plane came for her as a result of the letter to the first lady.

Authority Asked For Filer Estate

Letters of administration in the estate of Ernest O. Shearing, who died Nov. 22, 1942, are asked in a probate court petition filed by a son, Ernest L. Shearing, Filer.

Heirs, in addition to the petitioner, are Alma J. Moody, Arcadia, Calif.; Wallace A. Shearing, Selah, Wash.; Vada R. Bond, Bellingham, Wash., and Marvin R. Shearing, Los Angeles, Calif.

Judge C. A. Bailey set the hearing for 10 a. m., April 17. Rayborn and Rayborn are attorneys for the petitioner.

Brakie Outruns Train, Scoops Baby off Track

ROSEVILLE, Calif., April 7 (AP)—A great, cab-in-front locomotive rolled down the western slopes of the Sierra Nevada yesterday, hauling war-time freight, and fast.

The long train swung around a curve to a straightaway. Its crew gasped. A little child sat on the tracks a few hundred feet ahead.

The brakes screamed. The train plowed but its great weight pushed it on down the grade. It could never stop in time.

Brakeman "Tug" McDaniel climbed from the cab, waited to the split second he thought he could outrun the oncoming train, jumped to the right-of-way and scooped an 18-month-old baby to safety.

The child's mother, on a high bank nearby, had fainted.

Neither McDaniel, 39 a resident of Sacramento, nor the child was hurt.

Rev. Rolls Speaks To Kiwanis Club

An Easter program was featured at the Twin Falls Kiwanis club at its noon luncheon yesterday, with the Rev. E. Leslie Rolls, vicar of the Episcopal church here, as the guest speaker.

Discussing the meaning of Easter, Rev. Mr. Rolls declared that individuals do not pay enough attention to that portion of the Easter celebration representing the trip to the cross. He stressed particularly Good Friday in its relation to Easter Sunday.

Also a guest of Kiwanis was Marine cpl. John Wells, who spoke briefly of his experiences in recent south Pacific campaigns.

Vocal numbers were given by Jean Taylor, Twin Falls high school student, who sang "I Heard A Forest Praying" and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," accompanied by Miss Frances Pehrson.

Other visitors included Lieut. J. E. Farmer and Cpl. H. F. Gammon, guests of Kiwanian James Reynolds.

Nurse Instructor Conference Held

Second of a series of home nursing instructors' conferences was held yesterday at the Red Cross class rooms in the Orpheum theater building. Both the morning and afternoon sessions were conducted by Miss Lois Goodman, nursing consultant for the Red Cross area office at San Francisco.

The meetings, continuations of the March 18 conference, stressed projects in connection with home nursing instruction.

Suggestions were offered for making the course more comprehensive to laymen and appropriate extra-curricular books and articles were named.

The informal conference was open to all instructors of home nursing classes in this area, stated Mrs. Vaughn Price, newly appointed home nursing chairman for the Twin Falls chapter of the American Red Cross.

She also announced a third conference to be held in approximately six weeks.

Vacuum-Packed Glass Jar and Wartime Package

KEEPING OUR PROMISE . . .

In adopting the glassine-lined carton as a Wartime Package for Hills Bros. Coffee, we are keeping our promise to maintain our tradition of "roasting and packing the finest coffees obtainable." The coffee packed in these Wartime packages is the same identical coffee as goes into the glass jars. Our registered trade marks —the familiar "Arab" and "Red Can Brand"—appear on both the jar and package as our guarantee of this.

The amount of glass obtainable for vacuum packing coffee is limited, but these Wartime Packages in addition to the vacuum-packed glass jars that are available, are making it possible to buy Hills Bros. Coffee whenever you want it.

The Wartime Package is not vacuum-packed. So for greatest enjoyment buy it often . . . as you need it . . . but for freshness' sake, buy only one package at a time.

"Now that's what I call good coffee!"

YOUR SURPLUSES OF FRESH FOODS SHOULD NOT BE WASTED

Lee Marshall, Director of Food Distribution, War Food Administration says: "In quantity and nutritive value, the food provided for civilian consumers in the United States in 1944 will not be unlike what was available in 1943. This means that people will do well to start planning their Victory Gardens now, and be ready to take advantage of opportunities to can fruits and vegetables for home use."

Here's how you can use Hills Bros. Coffee jars for home canning. Save empty coffee jars and metal caps. Then ask your grocer for No. 63 Thrif-T-Lids—a one-piece sealing lid which gives airtight protection for all methods of canning. 10¢ for a package of 12. Simple directions with each packet. If your grocer does not have Thrif-T-Lids, send 10¢ (coin, please—no stamps) for each packet of 12 that you desire, to Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., 2 Harrison St., San Francisco 19. Lids will be mailed prepaid.

MR. WILLKIE WITHDRAWS

Those who have no time for Wendell L. Willkie will say that he withdrew as a candidate for the Republican nomination for president because he had no alternative after the results of the Wisconsin primary.

We are inclined to believe, however, that he quit the race because he is a practical individual who is honest with himself. Under the same circumstances, some politicians would ride it through to the end in spite of hell and high water. Willkie, realizing that the odds were against him, stepped out of the picture with good grace, even though he could have gone ahead and mustered strength that still would have worried Republican leaders at the Chicago convention.

There is no point in lamenting Mr. Willkie's withdrawal, but he deserves credit for demonstrating that he's a good loser. He deserves credit, too, for being one of the few leading Republicans who have deigned to make their political policies generally known.

If Mr. Willkie's action results in putting a stop to all the wrangling among the Republicans, that will be something in itself. And if Mr. Dewey, for whom the bandwagon appears to have started rolling, will now break his sphinx-like silence and let the people know where he stands, Mr. Willkie's withdrawal will have had another welcome result.

One thing we predict is that Willkie will not sit around and sulk. Although he has been branded as a maverick in politics, we doubt that even the higher-up Republicans have any fear that he will bolt the party as a result of his experience in Wisconsin.

This latest development demonstrates the course of things that change with the swing of the pendulum of public opinion. When the Republicans didn't have a prayer, Alf Landon offered himself as a sacrifice. Willkie followed in turn by dodging barrages of eggs and vegetables. And now things are looking rosier.

But as Willkie walks off the stage as a leading contender, most likely to support Dewey in his forthcoming campaign, he should not be dismissed too lightly.

The New York Times which we regard as this country's foremost newspaper has this to say about him:

"Mr. Willkie's announcement last night of his withdrawal from the campaign takes out of the contest for the leadership of his party the candidate who in the judgment of this newspaper has been best fitted by experience, by ability and by conviction for the Republican nomination for the presidency."

THE 4-F LABOR ARMY

Congressional proposals for putting all 4-F's in labor battalions, which will be taken up after the Easter recess, make it worth while looking at these 4-F's to see what's the matter with them, and what kind of a work force they would make.

Selective service headquarters reports that as of Jan. 1 there were approximately 3,437,000 men between the ages of 18 and 37 classified 4-F. That is a sizable body of men—nearly 45 per cent of the strength of the entire army itself. And considering that the bottom of that barrel has already been exposed in the search for effective manpower for armed services and essential industries, this is a tempting reserve on which to draw. Also, it offers congress a convenient substitute for the Austin-Wadsworth compulsory service law proposal.

Thus far the armed services have successfully fought off all pressure for lowering their physical standards, and when you look at the reasons for the rejection of these 3,437,000 men, it isn't hard to see why. Broadly, there are three principal reasons for a man's classification as 4-F.

Physical and mental defects account for 2,565,400, or 74.7 per cent.

Educational or mental deficiency, including only those men who have failed to meet minimum intelligence standards from June 1, 1943 on, account for 472,200, or 13.7 per cent.

Manifestly disqualifying defects, such as having only one arm or one leg or being deformed, 361,200, or 10.5 per cent.

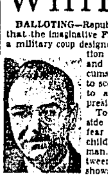

Other non-medical defects account for 38,200, or 1.1 per cent.

There is good reason for not wanting to take these 4-F's into the army or navy. Once these men were inducted into the services, the government would be responsible for them for life, the same as any other veterans.

Undersecretary Patterson recommends legislation making it clear that 4-F's in labor units should not be eligible for veterans' benefits. But why not? If a man is drafted and shoved around from one job to another in a labor battalion, why isn't he in an army, even if he gets civilian rates of pay? And even the undersecretary agrees such men should have government insurance in case of disability incurred on the job. All these men being physically or mentally handicapped to begin with, such disabilities would unquestionably be tremendous.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

BALLOTING—Republican bigwigs are scared stiff that the imaginative Franklin D. Roosevelt may stage a military coup designed to shove their June convention in Chicago from the headlines and microphones. Under such circumstances the public might have to scour the want ad or comic pages to ascertain the names on their presidential slate.

Ray Tucker

To the layman unversed in inside partisan maneuvering, such a fear may appear fantastic and as childish as suspicions of a "bogey man." But the "coincidences" between dramatic, Roosevelt-managed shows and G.O.P. billings have been so numerous that the superstitious politicians do not regard them as accidental happenings. Here is only a partial list:

Few days before the opposition assembled in Philadelphia for its 1940 selection of a ticket, F.D.R. announced that he had named two of its most respected patriarchs to his cabinet—Henry L. Stimson and Frank B. Knox. One humorous reaction at Philly was the remark, "In giving up Stimson and Knox for ex-Democrat Wendell Willkie, we got the better of that trade!"

In September, as Mr. Willkie was about to start out on his campaign, Cordell Hull startled the nation with news of the destroyer-British bases swap. Negotiations for both these events had been concluded long before they were broadcast, according to men who participated in them.

The north African invasion of November, 1942, was scheduled for two weeks before the off-year balloting on Nov. 3, military experts disclose. But it was unavoidably delayed by organizational difficulties, and our troops did not go ashore into French fire until four days after the polls had closed.

* * *

The President had not returned from the Casablanca conference in time to attend the White House Correspondents' association dinner as originally scheduled, and the newspapermen postponed it at his cabled suggestion to Steve Early, instead of holding it in his absence. It caused great inconvenience in view of war pressures on the hotel, entertainers, out-of-town guests and the reporters, but Mr. Roosevelt's request was a "command."

Although he rarely speaks formally at these affairs, he notified the arrangements committee that he intended to use the party as a forum for giving a radio account of his conference with Winston Churchill.

* * *

POWWOW—For several weeks after his return to the capital, he kept putting off the date, but he finally picked—of all days—Feb. 12. As a result, 2,000 G.O.P. dinners honoring their first President might have been basement church suppers or amateur theatricals for all the publicity they received.

When the Republicans' most illustrious figures—Thomas E. Dewey, John W. Bricker, Earl Warren, Arthur H. Vandenberg, Robert A. Taft, Harrison E. Spangler—assembled at Mackinac island in September, 1943, the British prime minister skipped from the White House to Harvard university.

At Cambridge he delivered a portentous speech which also had fourth-term implications. The reporters at the Michigan resort were so busy getting comment on the P.M.'s remarks that they almost forgot their original assignment. Few people know yet what the exiles did or said at their most important powwow since the 1940 convention.

"BURROCRATS"—Negotiations for establishment of a new agency to regulate the coal industry have been stalled temporarily by F.D.R.'s insistence that the government dominate the proposed setup.

Both the operators and miners are bucking the administration's demand. The owners and the unions want some federal direction so that possible postbellum dislocation will not precipitate wage cuts, price wars and loss of markets. Behind their move, however, lies a desire to regain control of their own business rather than to continue as subjects of Washington.

They favor a three-man commission representing industry, labor and Uncle Sam, with a minimum of government dominion. Arbitrary rulings by political podestas during the life of the Guffey coal act led both groups to holler, "Never again!" They could probably reach an agreement quickly, although some operators are holding out, if it were not for the insistence of one-man supervision by Fuel Czar Harold L. Ickes or one of his appointees. That prospect has made these ancient enemies—the unions and the corporations—virtual brothers-in-arms.

The United Mine Workers' Journal, the mouthpiece of John L. Lewis, attacks the administration viewpoint as follows:

"In the face of the hostile attitude of congress against continued burrocratic control, this resentment against domination by burrocratic whims and wishes, even though backed by the President, is so pronounced—as evidenced by the overwhelming vote of congress to override the President's veto of the tax bill because the premise of the veto was the handiwork of burrocrats—that the industry cannot expect success, even though the miners and operators were jointly aligned in seeking legislation which would have a burrocratic administration."

VIEWS OF OTHERS

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Winston Churchill received another vote of confidence from the house of commons the other day, when he demanded it upon a somewhat picayune issue. It was an overwhelming vote and testifies to the confirmed belief, both in parliament and among the British people, that Winnie is the one man to steer Britannia through stormy seas to victory. Nevertheless, if we may be allowed an awkward oar, we shall say we think the premier should in future have a real issue at stake before he demands another vote of confidence from commons. This time the dispute was over an equal pay educational bill. To command the house of commons to accept his view in the matter, and conform to it, was somewhat like shooting a jacksnipe with a field gun.

Mr. Churchill was cheered as he strode, broadly smiling, from the chamber, but there were those members who openly complained by being called to task over a comparative triviality, and certain London newspapers made sport of the premier's attitude. We think it should be remembered that Winston Churchill cannot be other than a very tired man, whose natural pugnacity would react more readily than ever to minor irritation. Indeed, the other great leaders of the times, whatever their nation may be, occasionally have manifested an identical touchiness, an absurd degree of sensitivity, in like instances. Yet popular commonsense, at least in democratic countries, cannot fail of discriminating between major occasion and petty.

Evidently the British think Winston Churchill a greater man than he seemed to be when he disciplined the house of commons to maintain his own concept of greatness. In this we agree with the Britishers.—Portland Oregonian.

WORK WITH NATURE

Congressman Angell of Portland is absolutely right in telling the war production board to close aluminum plants that rely upon coal rather than the plants in the Pacific northwest using the electric power generated on the Columbia.

Electricity is cheaper than coal but that is not the only point involved. If electricity is not used it is lost forever but that is not true of coal or oil. Those products can be held in reserve and used when needed.

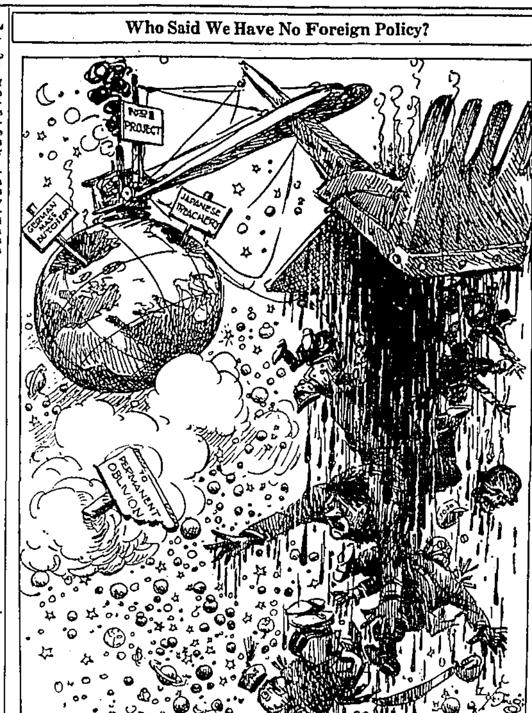

We should deal carefully with our supplies of petroleum and coal. When they are gone they cannot be replaced. We will be able neither to work or fight. We could be rendered helpless.

The northwest aluminum plants should be kept running and we should have provision for using the power of the Columbia for heating purposes.

It is not good planning to use coal or oil for heating when low-priced electricity is available.

There will be plenty of power in this region when the war ends and additional power can be produced as needed. It should be developed and used. To contend otherwise is to argue against nature.—Pendleton East-Oregonian.

Who Said We Have No Foreign Policy?

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—To call Governor Bricker of Ohio an "honest Harding" is unfair for more reasons than one. It is one of those glib phrases that serve merely to cloud political thinking.

Marquis Childs

Harding was sophisticated, cynical, identifying himself with Washington rather than his native Ohio. His pretensions to virtue and piety were assumed with an easy hypocrisy.

Bricker is Ohio personified. In fact, sometimes you feel that he cultivates almost too consciously the country boy attitude. The governor lards his conversation with phrases out of his boyhood. Speaking of the resplendent attire of one of the reception committee at a recent stop on his tour, he quoted a saying of his father's:

"Why, he was dressed up like a she-bear going to market."

* * *

Rather than Harding, I would compare Bricker to Alf Landon of Kansas. The two have much in common. They both set good records in their respective states. They both have a strong state and regional pride. If Bricker seems to lack something of Landon's tart shrewdness, he makes up for it by being a better public speaker, more polished and professional.

The kind of talks that Bricker has been making in his campaign for the presidential nomination have sounded remarkably like the speeches that Landon made in 1936. You get a curious feeling of having heard it not once, but several times before.

Everything about the governor and his campaign is country cured. With him on his campaign sorties, are old friends and associates from Ohio, conscious, like the governor, that they are playing for the first time in the big leagues.

Bricker's campaign manager is Roy Moore, publisher of seven Ohio newspapers, among them the Marion Star, which was Warren Harding's paper. A member of the governor's law firm, Robert L. Barton, is his secretary and chief arranger of the political tours. The press representative is J. J. Flanagan, a former Toledo, O., newspaper man.

Possibly the most convinced Bricker-for-president man in the country is John W. Galbreath, Columbus, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Galbreath, a quick moving, intense little man with extensive real estate holdings in several cities, usually turns up when Bricker is to make a major speech, although he does not travel with him.

The governor says that while Galbreath has contributed to the campaign fund, his contributions have not been large. The total sum spent thus far, according to Bricker, has been small, merely enough to cover the cost of travel and a little literature.

Mrs. Bricker, like Mrs. Willkie, is a good trouper. What these politicians' wives have to take is something! I have seen her greet a reception committee in the black predawn of 6:15 a. m. looking as pleased as though it were high noon and she was just out of a beauty parlor.

The most ardent press support for the governor's candidacy has come from H. P. Wolfe papers in Columbus. Contrary to current report, Bricker says that the Wolfe family has not helped to finance his campaign. Karl B. Pauly, political editor of the Ohio State Journal, one of the Wolfe papers, accompanies the governor on his tours and is the author of the recently published campaign biography.

* * *

Bricker's strategy has been to keep out of the primary contests. He seems to believe he can annex delegates without risking a test by the voters. He still speaks confidently of the delegate strength he will show when the convention opens in June.

But I must say that, traveling with him even for a short time, it is difficult to see where the strength is coming from. Governor Dewey is acquiring a sizable total of southern delegates and even those who are uninstructed lean toward the New Yorker.

Bricker is working hard. He speaks to audiences of loyal Republicans who applaud him generously. He makes a handsome appearance. But if he is gaining, the evidence is hard to find.

His speeches have an empty sound. They seem to lack both weight and authority. In times like these, people want something more than a "good governor."

POT SHOTS

CHAPTER 15 OR SO

Dear Pot Shots:

Wasn't "One Who Knows" just a wee bit harsh with the Twin Falls mothers in connection with the Bill Thompson, Nora Carpenter episode?

It is quite obvious that he (or she) should not read just what appeals, skipping the rest, in regards to the Bible.

If, after reading the Ten Commandments, one is unable to form an opinion, let's just erase them from the Book, do away with the laws of the land and all go out and have a jolly "good time."

A LUGUBRIOUS GENT

We wandered in on Carl Anderson. It was the tag end of the usual terrific day for C. and his staff. He looked very mournful.

"Why?" asked we.

"Because they don't believe me," said he.

"About what?" asked we. "And who?"

"About transacting ration business by mail and not flocking in here in person. Practically everybody."

He sighed. You should hear C. sigh. It's a work of art. He's the best sigher in town. And that's saying something. This town has some Grade AA sighers.

Said Carl: "It gums up the works to have hundreds of people flocking in here. It can be done better by mail. Save gasoline, tires, standing in line, wear and tear on everybody." He got a gleam in his eye. We started edging away.

"Look," said he. "Pot Shots can do it. Try, will you?"

We hereby try.

THE NAVY TEACHES HUBBIES A LESSON

We understand that the most recent batch of Twin Falls husbands and pappies who went up to Farragut is having a tough time. The gang, we mean, which included Glenn Jenkins, Vey Gish, Clarence Nye, Larry Groves, Speed Jones, et al.

Seems the navy decided the company's barracks wasn't clean enough. So the navy slapped the whole outfit under restriction. Can't even go to the ship's store to buy cigarettes. In about two days they were perishing for smokes and other things, and were writing home to sundry wives to please send cigarettes in a hurry.

And what comment did the wives make? Laughed, the meanies. Said they'd warned the boys before going to the navy that they'd better start picking up things instead of tossing 'em every which way. Warned 'em, too, that married men are too much waited on at home. There's a moral in this, we fear, for other husbands on the brink of 1-A.

HISTORY OF TWIN FALLS

AS GLEANED FROM THE FILES OF THE TIMES-NEWS

15 YEARS AGO, APRIL 7, 1929

The Red Knights entertained with a beautifully arranged dinner dance Friday evening at the Hotel Rogerson complimentary to their new members, Charles Colner, Burdette Thompson, Roy Gray and Bill Scott. Jack Gray presided as president; Parris Kail welcomed the pledges and Henry Colner responded. Leavitt Craven gave a toast to the girls and Vivian Wilson responded. A piano number was given by Bert Wood and John Milner played a selection on the xylophone.

E. C. Davis and J. M. Thomas led discussions on the McNary bill at a meeting of Castleford Grange held here Tuesday evening.

27 YEARS AGO, APRIL 7, 1917

A movement for the erection of a club house with surrounding places of recreation was started at a social by the Countrywomen's club, given on Saturday night at the home of Mrs. J. E. White.

Twenty delegates from different parts of the county attended the county meeting of the M. W. A. yesterday. D. R. Sherman, Buhl, was chairman and H. C. Scranton, Twin Falls, clerk. Paul Smith was elected delegate and Thad Patton alternate for the state encampment at Gooding May 1-3.

H. Crenike, Filer, is erecting a big garage, 100 by 125 feet in size on Main avenue, beyond the Moon carpenter shop. W. G. Reed has the contract.

ANALYZING CURRENT NEWS FROM NEW YORK

PEACE—The growing doubt concerning Moscow's intentions was noted in this space yesterday. A solution to the problem is offered today—the consensus of expert opinion of American leaders who have ranked high in diplomatic positions:

Albert Leman

The United States appreciates the Soviet contribution to the eradication of nazi despotism. Without subscribing to communist doctrines, we value Russia's performance on the battlefield as a tremendous aid to the Anglo-American military campaign. The two capitalistic democracies in turn will relieve the U. S. S. R. even more than in the past when we open the invasion.

We must, however, add that recent unexplained moves by the Kremlin cause many to suspect that the Soviet Union plans to ram her own brand of peace settlements down the throats of border nations without consulting Washington and London and without the collaboration of its chief partners.

But Uncle Sam does not have to sit idly by wringing his hands, if the failure of Woodrow Wilson taught us anything.

* * *

PLEAD—Wilson's idealistic generalities supplied the moral shot in the arm in the last war but he was not sufficiently specific in a down-to-earth program.

Britain, Belgium and France had their backs to the wall. Before we crossed swords with the kaiser the President could have forced the allies to sign on the dotted line below specific guarantees in peace arrangements, as the price of our assistance. But he was too proud to barter.

At first, London and Paris wanted only munitions and a token A. E. F. But when czarist Russia collapsed and Hindenburg hurled his entire might against the western front, Lloyd George and Clemenceau frantically begged for millions of Yanks. Again Wilson could have dickered, but he let the opportunity slip.

One minute after 11 a. m. on Armistice day the American President had lost his bargaining power.

Or, as a member of his government admitted to the writer last week, "In the months before the war ended, he could have had anything. After the defeat of Germany he had to plead even for ships to take home the American army and it was a long time before this simple request was granted."

* * *

ULTIMATUMS — Franklin D. Roosevelt has avoided many of the pitfalls into which his great chief stumbled. But he seems to be on the verge of repeating Wilson's tragic error—that of not nailing down guarantees in return for aid.

Those in the know maintain that the exposition of Hull's 17 points was not so much a platitudinous platform for home consumption as a shaft aimed at Moscow, while hinting that we still believe in all the noble aims set forth in the document. But Moscow paid scant attention to the sermon from the Tennessee mountaineer.

We could have written an ironclad program of collaboration before we exported the first lend-lease jeep to Archangel. But then we were in the one-way Santa Claus mood. An event unique in history. Now we have a second chance.

Washington does not need to issue ultimatums. Its needs merely to talk honestly and frankly with an ally through state department channels. To say right now to Marshal Stalin, "America and Britain will launch the invasion provided that you agree to genuine collaboration. There must be a free exchange of ideas in advance and a pledge of united diplomatic action by all three of us or we call off the second front. Teamwork or else—"

That is the kind of language the hardheaded realist understands.

The consequences of this possible stiff demand will be discussed next in this column.

* * *

VEGETABLE—This may be bad news for some tots, but the New York food industry predicts that spinach will soon be available the year round for the diets of all children.

Leafy vegetables are among the products most successfully dehydrated as they retain full flavor, excellent appearance and can be processed at low cost. Frozen spinach is expensive and the canned article is not extensively marketed. Fresh spinach is a seasonal item which cannot be held in cold storage for a long time. But the new dried variety is becoming very popular.

Fruit and vegetable powders appear to have a good future. Six full glasses of beverage made from a mixture cost only 10 cents. Laboratories are experimenting with dehydrated seafoods, poultry and new cuts of meat.

There is so much lard now that packers are using it in place of scarce wrappers to coat frozen beef, lamb and pork in cold storage. Butchers are having difficulty in finding fancy coverings for the traditional Easter hams.

A greater than seasonal increase is expected in the next few months in winter truck crops, eggs, citrus fruits, meat and butter. The prospects are more favorable than for the same period last year.

* * *

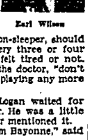

DOCTORS — Wounded United States exchanged prisoners of war, arriving in New York from Germany, are said by army physicians to be in relatively good health.

Their long rest in enemy camps restored most of them. They were treated properly. In fact, in many cases surgical operations requiring great skill had been performed. Nazi hospital fare supplemented by Red Cross food packages kept them well nourished.

German doctors had plenty of everything except bandages. Cloth is so scarce in the reich that dressings were often laundered and used repeatedly.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT BY EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I hopped over to the Hurricane last night to see the great Duke Ellington return to Broadway. The Duke was just off his deathbed; at least he'd been very, very ill with an infected tonsil, with temperature of 105. His physician, Dr. Arthur Logan, had finally pulled him out of it, and commanded him to lead a normal life. Meaning the Duke, a great non-sleeper, should get some sleep every three or four days, whether he felt tired or not.

Earl Wilson

"And," insisted the doctor, "don't waste your energy playing any more benefits."

Last night Dr. Logan waited for the big bandleader. He was a little late and the doctor mentioned it.

"I just came from Bayonne," said the Duke.

"What were you doing over there?" asked the doctor.

"Playing a benefit," said Duke.

* * *

Wearing a light, almost cream-colored suit, one of a reputed wardrobe of 50 or 60 suits, the Duke was lowered from the ceiling on a special stage that drops gently to the floor while he plays the piano.

He then led his big band in his own perfect way.

The Duke is just one of the great Negroes now performing brilliantly in the New York night clubs, and being a credit to their race. Across Broadway, at the Zanzibar, Ethel Waters is singing her old and some new songs, for $3,500 a week. At Cafe Society Uptown, the brilliant and beautiful Hazel Scott is wooing the piano with her own special touch. Broadway is—no matter what else you may say about it—not very race-minded, and I have never heard any white performer express any jealousy of these three top money-makers.

Indeed, Duke's return to the Hurricane for a long engagement re-emphasizes that we have something like equality on Broadway, with the Negroes having an equal share in everything that's good, and if the above examples aren't enough, I might throw in Count Basie, Cab Calloway and Lionel Hampton and also something just up the Stem a piece—Billy Rose's great Negro hit show, "Carmen Jones."

* * *

At the Duke's opening I saw such leaders as the Andrews sisters, Bandleaders Xavier Cugat, Jerry Wald, Georgie Auld and others — but nobody attracted more attention than Hazel Scott, who did a couple of whirls on the dance floor wearing a dark dress and a spectacular reddish foulard kerchief as a headdress. It dropped down her back almost to her thigh. She said it was 36 inches long and it looked it.

I asked Duke after the show if he is a hypochondriac.

In a swell new book, "Never Whistle in a Dressing Room," Maurice Zolotow says that "at the first sneeze, Dr. Logan must fly to any part of the country" where the Duke is. It says also that "he has a collection of 800 well read books on Negro history and prehistorical African art" and that "Orson Welles has been quoted as saying that next to Welles, Ellington is the only other genius with whom he has ever come into contact."

* * *

"I guess I'm a hypochondriac all right," Duke laughed, "but my doctor says you got to watch us hypochondriacs all the time—because we might get really sick." You see, he is still hoping for bad health.

The Duke, who'll be 45 next month, has a 25-year-old son, Sgt. Mercer Ellington, whose song, "Slip of the Lip," was played last night. And of course the Duke, composer of many a great jazz number, played his own newest one, "Do Nothing Till You Hear From Me." The new Hurricane show offers a sensational act called Burton and His Birds, with pet birds doing acrobatics, and one bird carrying a stick afire at both ends, and finally putting the flames out by flapping its wings. The rest of the show is just average, but you won't get Duke to say anything about that.

"I just play the music," he says. "It would be like me being a butcher, telling a baker what to do." If us columnists, while stealing gags, would steal that mind-my-own-business policy, we might be popular, like Duke is.

Henry (The Neem Is on the Beam) Nemo, the wonderful Broadway character who talks a language all his own, is going to win new fame as author of the song, "Don't Take Your Love From Me." The song is unusual because of one hunk that goes, "Tear a star from out the sky . . . And the sky feels blue." When Neem wrote this song about three years ago, publishers told him the sky doesn't feel blue and that the line should be "The sky IS blue." Neem, a genius and therefore independent, replied, "It FEELS blue, and you can't tell me otherwise." Neem stuck to his guns, and so, before long, all over the country, the sky will be feeling blue. Neem has another song about the moon smiling at him. I told him I'd say something about it and The Neem said, "thanks a mil."

I got a lot of laughs—oh, all right, and a steak, too—at the Old Romanian last night, especially when Sadie Banks, the lower east side Sophie Tucker, went over to a table and told some raucous young fellows, "Behave yourself or get the hell out." One youth yipped back at her and Sadie said, "Listen, son, don't pull that stuff on mama, or I'll take your pants down and whip you!"

Makes Record

Seventy-four year-old Mrs. Mollie Becker, who has made 75,000 sponges for the Red Cross during daily afternoon visits to the Rupert Red Cross rooms during the past 15 months. (Staff Engraving)

By MRS. G. W. DOYLE

RUPERT, April 7—Four hours each day, five days a week, from January, 1943, until April 1, 1944—that is the astounding record of work given freely to the American Red Cross here by a lone but amazing-ly young Mrs. Mollie Becker.

She's only "a little past 74 years of age," but you'd never know it from the amount of work she accomplishes in a week.

During that 1 to 3 p. m. period five days each week, Mrs. Becker made 75,000 sponges of all types, besides serving as caretaker of the Red Cross work rooms.

Activities Varied

In addition to this work, she cared for her home, worked one afternoon each week at the Victory store and was caretaker of the I. O. O. F. hall. And besides her work she is a member of several organizations, in-cluding the Rebekah lodge, in which she has been an active member for more than 25 years.

Mrs. Becker was born Dec. 18, 1869, at Dexter, Colo., and as a child moved with her family to California for a short time, followed by a period of living at Weiser. There she was married to John A. Stacey in 1888.

To this union two daughters were born, Mrs. Ada Miller, Caldwell, Ore., and Mrs. Edith Clevenger, Burley. The family came to Minidoka project in 1907, locating on a homestead near Rupert. Following the death of Mr. Stacey in 1916, she moved to Rupert where she has lived since.

In 1918 she was married to Alfred Ross, who died in 1929. In 1933 she married Henry Becker, and they now maintain their home in Rupert.

Charter Member

Mrs. Becker is a member of the Methodist church, and since 1909 has been a member of Evening Star Rebekah lodge and is a past noble grand of the organization. She was a charter member of the Helping Hand club, organized in 1908, and served as its second president.

During the summers for the past several years she and Mr. Becker have spent their time in the Malley vicinity, employed by C. H. Betty in the care of his sheep.

In addition to her two daughters, Mrs. Becker has six grandchildren, five great grandchildren and 14 stepchildren. Nineteen members of her family are serving in the armed forces.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

As to be expected, the war has excited the emotions of young boys of eighteen are marrying girls in their teens before going off to war. Already the trouble letters are coming through the mail, one or two a day now, as the problems these youthful, often thoughtless marriages rouse begin to come to a crisis.

The young husband is abroad and there is a baby coming. Who is to carry the responsibility for the mother's care and the baby's welfare? The boy has discovered a divinity in the land of his adoption. Will his young wife please divorce him so he can marry this lovely creature without whom he cannot live another hour. The young wife has discovered that she married a stranger whom she does not love. Can she have the marriage annulled? These are just a few samples of the troubles thoughtless young people bring upon themselves and their families—who must shoulder their tasks such complications impose.

Still Children

It would help a trouble-ridden world if these youngsters would let their heads hold back their hearts just now. Under the conditions may be that is too much to expect but the adults have a right at least to ask it. What good is it to follow the marriage of two very young people who have known each other three days, or even three months? They are victims of emotion induced by war. When that wears off as it usually does in a period of enforced separation, disillusion sets in but the hard fact of a marriage stands fast.

Let these children beware. Our boys of eighteen were boys in fact until the government called them. Men and put them in the Service. Our system of education had kept them boys, and they will remain boys until the experiences of war

Club Warned to Prevent Shortage of Vegetables

"Because many fathers are now leaving for the service, it is possible to have a shortage of vegetables this summer even though some individuals had an over-abundance last summer," Twin Falls Garden club members were warned in an address stressing the great importance of victory gardens, given by Mrs. Hanley Payne at the club's meeting at the home of Mrs. W. T. Seal.

Mrs. Payne, who was named a member of the city victory garden committee by Claude Detweiler, pointed out that the need for vegetables will be more acute this year than ever before.

"Food must be our first consideration," she declared. "We can still have our flower gardens, but they must, of necessity, be smaller to allow for vegetable plantings."

The club is undertaking to furnish soldiers stationed at Hunt with plantings to relieve the barrenness of their quarters, through the suggestion of the camp and hospital committee of the Red Cross.

Mrs. H. A. Severin and Mrs. Metta Baisch were named the committee in charge of this project.

Discussion of the study of the plant kingdom, Mrs. Payne discussed the moss and fern classes.

Discussion revealed that there are a number of ferns native to southern Idaho, which can be grown with reasonable success in gardens here.

Club members showed Mrs. Seal with many plants for her garden at her new home on the hospital road.

Strangely, of all the sports that Ye Olde Sports Scrivener writes about in this column the one that apparently draws the greatest reader interest is the sport of which there is the least in Idaho—the so-called sport of kings, horse racing. Seldom a turf story fails to draw a letter from some enthusiast.

The bangtails seem to be fascinating — even the sport writers. During the pudgy one's years in the sport racket he has seen many fine baseball writers give up that branch of the game to write racing.

YOSS was never one of the elect, apparently because his aspirations levered he wasn't the stuff of which turf scriveners are made after he reported in a headline that a young female had won a maiden race when it was a stallion of ancient vintage that did. He hadn't learned at the time that in the parlance of the turf "maiden" means first.

One of the turf stories brought a letter from Mrs. Calhoun at Bellevue saying that there was a race track there at one time and that a gentleman in that vicinity once owned a stable.

Another resulted in a telephone call informing this ancient word puddler that there was a much advertised match race at Hailey in which Laverne Fator and Pete Schaefer, two of the nation's great, great riders, rode against each other.

Then there came the information that Mrs. Rex Sawyer could probably provide some interesting news about her brother, George Ellis, who was Twin Falls' greatest contribution to Idaho's list of great jockeys. The pudgy one was informed that she resided in the Eden vicinity but a letter to her there came back with the notation: "Unknown."

Mrs. Helen Seymour up Hailey way wrote after an article appeared in this column relating that the Wood river area had produced great jockeys in Laverne Elmer and Mark Fator, Schaefer and Lee Mink, she said that J. J. McFadden had informed her that credit for their entry into the racing game should go to Ed Smith, who used to be of the old Flannery Springs (Clarendon to us) but now of Reno, Nev. He "started most of those boys out," Mrs. Seymour wrote, "calling their attention to the training stables at Reno and was instrumental in convincing the boys' families that they should have their chance."

Another letter from Frank Unamuno, writing from Ruby Lake, Nev., clears up why Ye Olde Sports Scrivener called Laverne Fator's brother "Lester" instead of "Mark," by which he was known in Hailey. Unamuno mystifying Ye Olde Sport Scrivener.

Unamuno, who hasn't lived in Hailey for several years but still considers it his home and "the Wood river country the garden spot of America," wrote the letter, he because he couldn't stand by without seeing that area get its share of the credit for producing great jockeys.

He said that he forgot to mention that Lester Fator rode on the track as "Mark" and that while Mark was the same as that of his older brother and that form sheets generally identify a jockey by the first initial.

The letter also brought the information that another Fator also started to ride, the youngest son of the famous brothers but he grew too heavy while still young.

Unamuno doesn't remember Lee Mink but declares "there was a Mink family that lived in Soldier or Hill City. I do know that one of the boys rode but I don't recall his name. They called him 'Toughy.' I remember him well as he used to ride against my brother on the tracks in that vicinity."

Navy Stars Aid Chicago Hopes

CHICAGO, April 7 (AP)—A winning athletic team at the University of Chicago? Could be. And, with thumbs in the navy, the Maroons' 1944 baseball team might bring a change to the dreary sports picture out at the midway.

Chicago hasn't won a big ten conference basketball game in four years. Its was only ten of 10 contests in the last two years, and generally has finished at the bottom of the pile in other sports events.

A few weeks ago the 1944 baseball prospects for the Maroons didn't brighten the outlook. Ten candidates answered Coach Kyle Anderson's call for baseball practice — youngsters in their late 'teens, with a couple of veterans from last year's squad.

But as the Maroons opened their conference season today at Iowa City against the University of Iowa Anderson had a squad of 16—the best looking prospects from his squad of 40.

The increase of the original squad of 10 by men stationed in the navy unit training on the campus not only saved the sport for the Maroons this season but probably gave them a chance to field the best team in several seasons.

In today's starting lineup against the Hawkeyes are five navy men, including the battery of pitcher Ed Vanatter and catcher Don Norton. The latter played both baseball and football at Dartmouth, while Vanatter is ranked by Anderson as one of the most promising hurlers on the squad.

Burley Kayos Coast Champ

HOLLYWOOD, April 7 (UP) — Charley Burley, 153 pound Pittsburgh war worker, today was in possession of the California middleweight crown after scoring a ninth round knockout last night over Jack Chase, 160, Denver, in a scheduled 15-rounder at Legion stadium.

Willie Lewis, Ex-Choir Boy, Taught Carpentier

Another of a series
By BILLY ROCHE
Famous Referee

Willie Lewis was a cherub-faced choir boy who could lick all the tough kids in the toughest neighborhood in New York —the old gas house district.

A fine soprano voice fooled many a bully into a shellacking, won young Lewis a local reputation and a modicum of money in the theatrical world when the noted Maggie Cline of "Trow 'im Down, McCluskey" fame, engaged him to sing in her vaudeville skits.

At 14, Willie's vocal chords changed for the worse and his fighting for the better, so he began boxing as a featherweight when hardly out of short pants. Before he was through, Lewis became a fighter of international renown, tackled lightweights, welters, middleweights and finally heavyweights with marked success, although at his peak he never scaled more than 158. He stood only five feet eight.

Lewis, always a gentleman and a dude fighter of his period, originated the one-two punch taught George Carpentier by Jack Carpentier copied Lewis' style, then his explosive left hand precisely as did Willie. Finally, the pupil proved superior to the master when they boxed 20 rounds in Paris, May 29, 1912, a hairline decision going to the youngster who was to become the Orchid Man.

National Idol in France

Lewis wasn't particular about opponents, took them on as they came. He tackled Sam Langford as a welter when all others were ducking Tham, was knocked out in the second stanza, but not until he had dropped the Boston Tar Baby for a count of nine in the first with his famous one-two. Few heavyweights knocked down Langford, and those who did had to wait until he got old and they caught up with him.

Two years following the Langford match, Lewis took a six-round newspaper decision from the illustrious Joe Gans in New York.

Handsome, dapper and debonair, the blond, blue-eyed Lewis was a spontaneous hit when he arrived in Paris in 1906. He beat Jeff Thorne, knocked out a half dozen of Europe's best in succession, finally flattened three in one night to become a national idol.

Lewis commuted between New York and Paris six times he visited the French capital, stays lasting from one week to more than a year. Lewis and his manager, Dan McKetrick, contributed much to the development of boxing in France.

When the Seine overran its banks and created vast havoc, Lewis and McKetrick joined rescue parties, donated generously toward relief. They were decorated, hailed nationally.

During Lewis' second sojourn in Paris stories of his tremendous success lured Honey Mellody, former welter champion, into making the trip in an effort to steal some of Willie's thunder. Mellody had knocked out Lewis in four rounds. This time it was Lewis' turn, and Honey stayed out in four.

Ketchel Lewis' Favorite

Lewis engaged every headliner with whom he could get on: Rufe Turner, Willie Fitzgerald, Kid Griffo, Martin Canole, Harry Lewis, Billy Papke, Stanley Ketchel, Dixie Kid, Frank Klaus, George "K. O." Brown, Jeff Smith and Mike Gibbons, to name a dozen not previously mentioned.

Ketchel and Lewis became fast friends after the immortal Steve broke Willie's jaw, knocking him out in the second round in New York, May 27, 1910. He was shocked when Ketchel was shot and killed the following October, still talks at length on his favorite fighter and subject.

Lewis retired in 1915, now presides at a bar opposite Madison Square Garden where he regales customers with interesting fight tales.

And Willie Lewis is as accomplished a story teller as he was a fighter.

Willie Lewis . . . choir to clout.

New York Expects to Exceed 1943's Race Betting Record

By FRITZ HOWELL

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP) — The Empire state's racing season, which in 1943 pulled $284,635,711 through the parimutuels — of which $19,050,692 found its way into the state treasury — gets under way Saturday with a 25-day meeting at Jamaica.

Although the year's calendar calls for only 181 days of racing, as compared with 190 a year ago, indications are that there will be a big boost in betting.

Transportation problems have been eased, in that trains will be permitted to go direct to the tracks, although parking lots will again be closed. Last year the 3,252,554 paying customers had to walk as far as a mile and a half each way from regular transportation lines — but despite that handicap they biked the wagering total about 60 per cent over the $175,183,274 total of 1942.

The Jamaica meeting, which runs through May 6, lists eight stake races beginning with the traditional Paumonok on opening day. The first day's feature, a $7,500 added event for three-year-olds and up, is a six-furlong dash inaugurated in 1906. Last year it attracted such a large field that it was run in two sections, each with $7,500 added, and Apache and With Regards were the winners.

The Jamaica purses total $269,600 with $77,500 in stakes.

Another Jamaica feature is the $25,000 added Wood memorial, scheduled April 22, which last year provided Count Fleet with the spring board from which he hopped to his sensational "six for six" string of victories which included the Kentucky derby, Preakness, Withers and Belmont.

After Jamaica launches the northern season, Pimlico and Narragansett will follow next Wednesday, and a few days later they'll be running in Kentucky and Illinois.

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP) — Jockey Bobby Permane, who scored a triple Thursday, continued his sizzling riding streak Thursday at Tropical park by mounting five winners, including H. Shagrin's Red Duck, which paid $18.30 for $2 in coming home in front of the Wakefield purse.

The Red Duck covered the mile and 1-16th in 1:43 4-5, and won by three-quarters of a length over the favorite, J. Freedman's Sir. A. M. Hudson's Soverton was third, four lengths behind Sir.

Braves May Improve Position In N. L. if Punch Is Located

WALLINGFORD, Conn., April 7 (AP)—If Evansville Bob Coleman can find the right stuff to spike the Boston Braves' anemic punch he figures to improve the club's 1943 position in his first year as a big league manager.

Adding that wallop depends on the sophomore outfielders —Butch Nieman and Charley Workman—and a flock of new infield candidates.

Coleman knows that he can expect passable pitching from his big four of Al Javery, Jim Tobin, Nate Andrews and Charles (Red) Barrett who accounted for 57 wins on last year's sixth-place outfit.

Tommy Holmes gives class to the outfield, but the Brooklyn lad has been accepted by the navy and is awaiting call.

At the moment Kerby Farrell is the first sacker, but Buck Etchison, a .324 hitter at Hartford, may get the call if he can live up to his average. Ben Geraghty, a Brooklyn flash from Villanova in 1938, is the second baseman and Billy Wietelman is a fixture at short despite his weak hitting. Connie Ryan, a disappointment as a hitter last season, is getting another trial at third.

Phil Masi and Clyde Kluttz will divide the catching much the same as last year. Big Stew Hofferth, standout receiver with Indianapolis in the American association last year and By Boston is not expected to report pending a service call.

DETAIL FOR TODAY

Pearl Diver

The PEARL DIVER on a KP detail is the hapless chap who has the doubtful honor of being solely responsible for the cleansing of the dishes. He is also known as the "China Clipper." The task is virtually never ending and, though he has had experience at home, the sheer number of dishes is enough to overwhelm him. A PEARL DIVER smiles in glee when he hears the beautiful tinkle of broken china. The Army's way of dish washing calls for water so hot that it practically cooks the dishes. This is lovely for the skin and at the end of the day the PEARL DIVER finds that his hands and forearms are usually well done.

Morale

There's nothing wrong with the morale of this American-trained Chinese soldier as he brandishes his sub-machine gun with a "bring-on-your-Japs" grin, after victorious advance against nips across Tansi river, Hukawng valley, in northern Burma.

HAGERMAN

Miss Edith Condit recently underwent an emergency appendectomy in Tacoma, Wash, according to word received by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Condit. She is employed in defense work at Fort Lewis.

Bobby Weeks, seaman second class, is spending a 15-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vreeland. He has just finished boot training at Farragut.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Billiard have returned home from Boise. Mr. Billiard spent the past month at the veterans' hospital there where he underwent a knee operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Allen have received word that their daughter, Lieut. Frances Allen Tipton, has arrived safely somewhere in England. She is a member of the army nurse corps.

Night for the Morrow

By Robert D. Lusk

Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

PROLOGUE: A Colorado farmer, looking for some strayed calves on a September evening in 1919, comes upon a sick stranger who burdens him with an important written message. Seeking help, the farmer falls and knocks himself out. When he revives both stranger and message are gone. No one believes his tale.

THE STORY: After the Ku Klux Klan burn down his barn, Jan Mesrik is visited by Judge McNamara who persuades him to take the case to court.

* * *

OLD JAN VS. JIM NORBERG

XI

I attended the trial, going daily with my mother and father. Even a boy of my age needed no Gallup Poll to tell him where public opinion stood in this case. Naturally there were those who were in sympathy with my grandfather, but they were decidedly in the minority.

Once, during the first day of the trial, I went into the hall to drink from the fountain. A boy, a little older than I, pushed me to one side as I was about to drink.

"This fountain is for Americans," he said. "Your grandfather is a Bolshevik. Why don't her wear whiskers?

I stayed close to my parents after that.

The question in the trial was whether Norberg actually was on the Mesrik property the night the Klan called and the barn was burned. Old Jan, on the stand, told of uncovering him at the barn door, definitely identified him. But Norberg had an alibi in a substantial witness, the proprietor of the store in which the defendant worked. He testified that Jim and he were all the store all evening, working in the back room on the books. It was Old Jan's word against Jim's and Sam Washburn's.

If the attitude of the public was any indication, the jury was anxious to take the word of the defense witnesses. Any discrediting of my grandfather as a reliable witness would be welcomed, making it possible to acquit the more popular Norberg with a clear conscience, eliminating all possibility of censure. The defense attorneys knew the situation, had anticipated it. The next witness was called:

"Dr. James Morton."

Grandfather looked up with surprise from the pad of paper on which he was doodling.

* * *

The memory of that scene was beaten, literally, into my brain. It was the old courtroom before they built the new county courthouse. The brown wallpaper made the room appear dark, despite the row of tall windows along the right-hand wall. The judge's bench and the jury box to the left were dark oak with ginger-bread decorations.

Before the judge, between him and the spectators, were two long tables. At one sat the prosecutor and my grandfather, and at the other sat Norberg and his counsel.

It was on my grandfather that my attention was focused. The rest was background. My grandfather was then in his middle fifties. He had on a rough, tweed suit of gray. He loosely his muscular body, his more-than-six-feet of height. His face was tanned by the winds of the high prairies. He was a handsome man, with strong features. His iron gray hair, supposedly combed in pompadour fashion, was unruly. A lock now hung down over one of his deep, blue eyes.

These eyes were fixed on Dr. Morton. There was no enmity in them, rather they showed wonderment. I saw the prosecutor move to rise, but my grandfather put a hand on his shoulder, restrained him.

The defense attorney established that Dr. Morton had attended my father as well as other members of the family, was well acquainted with Old Jan.

"Did you," the defense counsel asked, "in the fall of 1919, on the night of Sept. 25, attend Jan Mesrik in the capacity of his physician?"

"Yes," the physician replied.

"What was the nature of his trouble?"

"He had had a bad fall, suffering a head injury. It had affected his mind."

"In what way had it affected his mind?" How did it manifest itself?"

The prosecutor again attempted to rise, was restrained.

"In hallucinations."

You could feel the audience's reaction, and in a moment you could hear it, a guffaw, snickers, whispering. They would have applauded except that they were in court. I looked at my grandfather. He sat there as if someone had hit him squarely across the face. Then he jumped to his feet. He moved his arms as if gesturing. His lips moved but no sound came from them. Then his arms fell to his sides and he stood there staring at Dr. Morton. He seemed to sense the appalling fact that he was now so unpopular that even his own physician would violate his professional ethics to brand him as, of all things, a crazy man! He slumped to his chair.

It was all over now. There were a few more questions to the doctor. He said that Old Jan had had a fever when he had arrived, that he was talking disconnectedly, that he talked in babbling fashion of meeting one of the mighty of the world, spoke of kings and emperors. But I heard little of what the physician said, and I am sure that my grandfather paid no attention further. We were whipped, mortified, humiliated. The prosecutor did not cross-examine the physician.

"It's no use," my grandfather said. "No one would understand. Let's get it over with. Let's get out of here."

It was over with shortly. Norberg was acquitted. The crowd was immensely pleased.

I cried that night, cried for myself, but I think that I cried particularly for my grandfather.

OFFICIALS SPEAK AT MORMON MEET

SALT LAKE CITY, April 7 (AP)—The "world is full of wickedness and it is the duty of the Latter Day Saints church to regenerate mankind." Mormon priesthood from over the nation was told today.

Speaking at the 114th annual conference in the domed tabernacle on historic Temple square, Apostle Joseph Fielding Smith told several thousand church officials it was their duty to teach "by percept as well as by example."

"Drinking is increasing," Apostle Smith continued: "The stench of tobacco smoke follows most people. Immorality is prevalent. We must regenerate the people through teaching by our missionaries."

Obligation to World

He said the Mormon church's obligation to the world was the spreading of Christ's teachings.

Le Grand Richards, presiding bishop of the church, called for "honest tithes and offerings."

Bishop Richards said he was grateful that payments of church offerings had increased and explained the added funds would enable the church to care for its own needy, thereby relieving public assistance rolls.

Richard L. Evans of the council of seventy said missionary work at home had brought 14,000 persons into the church.

"War does not change the fundamentals of religion," he said in urging that the gospel be taught to transients roaming the country looking for war jobs.

Apostle George F. Richards said it was the responsibility of church members to teach the gospel to all with whom they have contact.

President's Message Read

President Heber J. Grant's message, read at the opening session, asked parents to "set examples before your children that are worthy of imitation."

President Grant attended both sessions yesterday but was advised by physicians not to speak. His speech was read.

DECLO

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brower visited relatives in Ogden and Morgan, Utah, recently.

Billy Don Pries left for Olathe, Kan., where he will continue training. He has been visiting his brothers in Declo for the past week.

Max Huber left for Camp Beal, Calif., after visiting his wife and son for several days.

Lynn Noyes returned to Bushnell hospital at Brigham, Utah, after a 20 day furlough visiting his brothers Mac Noyes and Hal Noyes, and his sister, Mrs. Paul Brower.

The ancients were acquainted with mirrors.

SQUADRON PLANS EXPANDED SCOPE

Plans for expansion and increased activity of the Twin Falls civil air patrol squadron were announced by Merritt Shotwell, recently elected commander, after a meeting in the CAP room at the Park hotel Thursday night.

The meeting saw appointment of officers, and laying of plans for organization of two groups of boys and girls interested in flying, which will be furthered at a meeting to be held at the municipal airport at 3:30 p. m. Sunday.

Officers Named

Officers appointed by Shotwell are Denny Hogue, operations; John Garrett, public relations; Joe Donahue, intelligence; Mary Harris, adjutant; Glen G. Jenkins, executive; Dr. Glen A. Hoss, medical; Mrs. Mack Gray, communications; Harry Harris and Albert Jones, flight leaders, and Ed McCarty, supplies and transportation.

Lieut. W. W. Thomas, commander of Co. K, Idaho state guard, and member of the Twin Falls city council, talked to the group on military courtesy and discipline. Shotwell reviewed the squadron's activities of the past year, which included three bomber hunts and completion of courses in navigation, meteorology and radio telephony, and announced several vacancies in the squadron because of induction of members into military service. Applicants need not be pilots.

Patrol Cadets

Boys and girls 16 and 17 years of age who are interested in aviation will be admitted to membership in the civil air patrol cadets, an organization now being formed, Shotwell said, and boys 17 and 18 years of age are eligible for membership in the air cadets, whom local CAP members will give training. This training, said Shotwell, will be the pre-flight instruction which prepares youths for entrance into the army air forces. It includes military courtesy, infantry drill, meteorology and navigation, internal guard duty and first aid.

Shotwell said boys and girls interested in joining one of the two air youth organizations will be given free airplane rides at the airport Sunday afternoon.

Cantata, Sunrise Rites at Wendell

WENDELL, April 7—Presentation of the cantata, "Our Living Lord," by the vested Methodist church choir in services at 11:15 a. m. Sunday, and a sunrise service on the lawn of the Presbyterian church at 6:30 a. m. are features of the Easter observance in Wendell churches.

The cantata will be offered under the direction of Mrs. Faeth Eaton, with Mrs. Bessie Hamilton as accompanist. The choir will wear its vestments for the first time.

The sunrise services are under the supervision of Mrs. Ruth B. Miller, with young people from both the Presbyterian and Methodist churches taking part.

During the church hour, 11 a. m., at the Presbyterian church the story of the Passion week will be presented by use of anthems, solos, a quartet and intermittent readings. The service will open with a violin solo by Robert Hughes, and close with "Recessional," sung by Arthur Bennett.

High mass or Missa Cantata will be offered at the Sisters' chapel at 6:20 a. m. Sunday with music by the sisters' choir. Father James Hallissey will hold mass at St. Anthony's church at 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

At 11:30 a. m. Sunday a special Easter program will be given by the Sunday school at the L. D. S. church with the young people taking part.

Elmore Legion Hall Condemnation Asked

BOISE, April 7 (AP)—Condemnation of the hall of the Elmore post No. 26 of the American Legion at Mountain Home was sought today in a suit filed in Idaho federal district court on behalf of the federal works agency by the district attorney's office.

The suit would condemn the use of the hall as a recreation center for soldiers at the Mountain Home airbase. Assistant District Attorney E. H. Casterlin said the hall now is being used by the USO.

Solon Terms U. S. Army World Best

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—Senator Eastland, D., Tex., in an Army day address, Wednesday described the American forces as "the best trained, the best equipped, the best fed, the best led and the most intelligent army in the world."

"They can and will give us victory on the field of battle," he said in a broadcast on the Mutual network. "But they cannot win the war alone. Victory on the battlefield will be hollow and an empty thing unless in the postwar world justice and righteousness prevail among all mankind. The causes of war must be removed. Nations and individuals must live in common brotherhood."

Enemy-Held Abbey "Stood out Like Sore Thumb," Says Flier

By LARRY F. HALL

* * * *

"It stood out like a sore thumb," said Lieut. Vinton L. Stanfield, first pilot of the Flying Fortress, "Hustlin' Hussy," in describing the first bombing raid on Monte Cassino monastery, epic of which 50 missions in the Mediterranean area. He he is spending a 30-day leave at his home in Twin Falls.

"All during the beginning of the mission, the weather had been bad and we were afraid we were going to have trouble. We were flying at 20,000 feet and had to be especially precise in the bombing because of the proximity of our own ground forces to the target.

Hit It Immediately

"They made sure we were well briefed on that score. When we got there it stood out like a sore thumb and we hit it on the first bomb run. We had orders to make as many runs as were necessary so we were glad to get it over with quickly. Not much fighter opposition at that height, but plenty of flak."

Smiling, obviously overjoyed to be back with his wife and three children, one of whom he had never seen before, Lieutenant Stanfield spoke easily of the wholesale bombing of strategic enemy positions in Greece, France and Italy, sometimes as many as 300 Fortresses participating.

150 Bullet Holes

"We came back on three engines plenty of times, but we always managed the ship back," he continued. "One time there, an ME-109 had knocked out three of our guns and started to come in for the kill. We made it all right, but when we landed I counted 150 bullet holes in the ship."

Those interceptors can't chase you more than 30 minutes, so lots of times we'd come in from the Mediterranean, dump the load, then head back out to sea."

When he arrived here two and one-half days after leaving north Africa, he saw his third child and only son for the first time.

"My wife cabled me on Dec. 16, just after he was born but I never got it. Didn't know about it until the middle of January."

Fast Hop Home

Describing his flight home, Lieutenant Stanfield went on: "We left Africa Friday morning and arrived in Salt Lake Sunday morning. After I was here a few days I went down to Kansas to see my parents. It took me as long to do that as it did to get here from Africa."

During the nine months since June, 1943, when he went across, Lieutenant Stanfield has acquired a campaign ribbon with two bronze stars for service in the north African, Sicilian and Italian theaters. He wasn't wearing it, but he admitted that he also held the air medal with eight oak-leaf clusters.

During the height of the campaign he flew on 12 missions in 13 days. After his 33rd mission he spent a week in a rest camp on the Isle of Capri, famous resort off the coast of southern Italy. Praising the work of the Red Cross in setting up recreational and entertainment facilities, he said:

"It sure is good to find people who can speak English when you're in a foreign country."

He'll Come Back

When asked what he planned to do in the postwar era, he answered, chuckling:

"First, get here as quickly as possible. Oh, I'd like to stay in aviation as long as it's Twin Falls aviation. I wouldn't want to get into commercial flying; I've been away from home long enough. Besides the wife put the bee on that. I'd like to get into air freight transportation, maybe."

"Right now, I want to see the war in Europe over with. When that happens and we can intensify the fight in the Pacific, I'll volunteer to fly over and bomb Tokyo."

Lieutenant Stanfield enlisted directly in the air cadets in 1942 and received his wings nine months later at La Junta army airbase, Colorado and the crew of the new ship assigned to "Hustlin' Hussy" while still in the U. S. and flew her over, stopping at England en route.

Maybe to Pacific

He will probably be sent to a base within the U. S. for six months when he reports to Army Air Forces 14 for reassignment. Then, in line with army custom, he expects to be sent to a different theater, possibly the Pacific.

"Probably the boys in the Pacific would like to be in Italy, but I know darn well the boys in Italy would like to be in the Pacific." Just the old story of the grass looking greener on the other side of the world.

STETTINIUS TALK WITH EDEN NEARS

LONDON, April 7 (U.P.) — U. S. under-Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, jr., has arrived in London, it was disclosed today.

Stettinius was expected to consult with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and other cabinet members.

The party accompanying Stettinius included Freeman Matthews, deputy director of the U. S. office of European affairs; Wallace Murray, director of the office of near eastern and African affairs of the state department, and Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of Johns Hopkins university and one of America's leading geographers.

It was recalled that the original announcement of Stettinius' proposed trip to London prompted speculation in Washington and New York that he might break the ground for another meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, and Premier Josef Stalin.

This suggestion was strengthened by the parallel between his visit and the Moscow conference of foreign ministers which preceded the Teheran meeting.

Among the subjects considered likely for discussion were the Polish question, the status of the Atlantic charter, Anglo-American recognition of the Badoglio regime in Italy, the status of the exiled Greek and Yugoslav governments, and the position of the axis satellite governments in case of breaks with the nazis.

POTATO SUPPORT PLAN OUTLINED

BOISE, April 7 (AP) — The War Food administration's 1944 price support program for Idaho potatoes will be accomplished through government purchases and loans to producers, but only loans will be used to support prices for late-crop storage potatoes.

C. O. Youngstrom, Idaho extension service economist, said he had been informed today by H. M. Tucker, chief of WFA's fruit and vegetable section, that these support prices will be established for Idaho U. S. No. 1s July and August, $1.75; September $1.85, October $1.90, November $2, December $2.10.

Mercer explained that these prices will constitute a floor, and if market indications are that the Idaho grower prices may drop below these levels, the WFA will step in with government purchases and loans to growers and incentives to delay marketing.

The WFA official emphasized that factual returns to producers from loans and other price support operations will be below the basic prices to allow for local services included in such prices, but not required in placing potatoes under loans or in other price support operations."

Support prices for No. 2 potatoes and other grades will be worked out proportionately lower than the No. 1 price.

The WFA official said plans for early, intermediate and other non-storage potatoes include these methods.

"1. Insofar as practicable, contracts will be entered into with canners, dehydrators and other processors who are located that they can make direct purchases of potatoes in the producing areas. Such contracts will require that these processors pay producers' prices equivalent to the basic prices and process the potatoes for delivery to WFA. Diversion payments also may be made at appropriate rates to divert potatoes to similar outlets.

"2. Potatoes may be purchased from growers, associations of growers and certified dealers."

WFA said potatoes acquired through the program will be used to meet wartime procurement needs, including public welfare distribution.

WATER SUPPLIES SLIGHTLY LOWER

Water supply for southern Idaho this year will be slightly less than in 1943, according to word received here Thursday from Lynn Crandall, district engineer for the department of interior, Idaho Falls.

Stating that an increased snowfall of 15 per cent over last month has brought the average snow on the watersheds to 98 per cent of normal, Mr. Crandall continued:

"The snow is not starting to melt as early this year as it did a year ago and some of the lower elevations still have snow that were dry on April 1, 1943."

The comparison with 1940's supply is based on the fact that in the Jackson lake and Grassy lake region the fall is less than in 1940, while in the Buffalo, Salt River and Island park areas it is about the same as in 1940, he said.

NOTICE
FIRST SEGREGATION
FARMERS
Eden Grange Sponsors Labor Meeting for First Segregation Farmers.
The Eden Grange is sponsoring a farm labor meeting for Saturday night, April 8, at the Eden Grange hall at 8:30 o'clock to consider the farm labor situation.
It has been announced that people will not be able to go to Hunt individually this year to get seasonal farm help as was done last year. This year such help as comes from Hunt will have to be secured through the camp organization. The available labor supply from this source will be limited and those who make proper application early will be the ones to benefit from this labor.
The Hazelton labor camp will serve "First Segregation" farmers and processors. Orders are already being placed for labor to be needed later on in the season. And it is important that farmers in this territory fully understand the rules and the procedure that must be followed to secure help through the Hazelton camp, farmers will need to be members of the Hazelton Labor Camp association.
Because the organization meeting at Hazelton recently was not attended by many farmers living west of Hazelton, the Eden Grange is sponsoring the meeting on Saturday night, April 8, at Eden. It is an open meeting for all farmers on the First Segregation regardless of Grange membership.
